Group wants religion taken out of B-W school system

BY CASSANDRA FAVRE
STAFF WRITER

The Appignani Humanist Legal Center/American Humanist Association on Thursday complained of "several serious and ongoing violations of the Establishment Clause of the First Amendment occurring at Bay High School."

The group sent a statement to the Sea Coast Echo dated Oct. 10. It was also sent via email to BWSD Superintendent Dr. Sandra Reed, and BHS Principal Dr. Amy Coyne, the letter states.

According to the letter, the AHA is a "national nonprofit organization with over 34,000 members across the country, including many in Mississippi. The mission of AHA's legal center is to protect one of the most fundamental principles of our democracy; the constitutional mandate requiring a separation of church and state."

Monica Miller, legal director and senior counsel at the Appignani Humanist Legal Center, said her office was contacted about the matter by a "parent of children in the BWSD." The complainant is not named in the letter.

"Our complainant reports that Mr. Eric Collins, a teacher and football coach at Bay High School, regularly abuses the authority of both of his positions to proselytize Christianity to this students," Miller said.

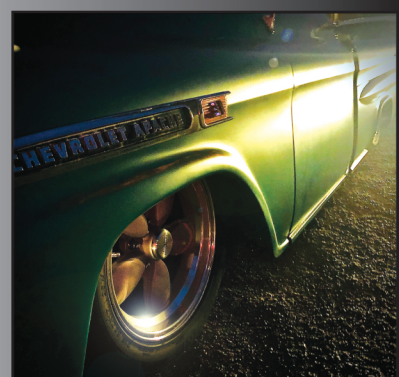

Miller lists the following reported incidents:

"Mr. Collins told his class that he hoped the students would all 'find Jesus someday'; Mr. Collins told his students during a personal finance class that both he and his father had 'found Jesus.' In the same class, Mr. Collins asked one of his students what 'God intended them to do with their money'; On a separate occasion, Mr. Collins expressed his opinion to students that the Big Bang Theory is false because 'God created life'; In his capacity as coach of the Bay High School Tigers football team, Mr. Collins organizes weekly team breakfasts and meetings for players at a local church called the Power House of Deliverance

The 23rd annual Cruisin' the Coast -- billed as "America's Largest Block Party" -- continues today in Bay St. Louis and Pass Christian.

"This really is the biggest turnout we've ever had," Hancock Tourism Bureau Director Myrna Green said Friday, "and the Cruisers actually rave about how much they love Bay St. Louis."

CTC officials said Friday that it is the biggest turn-out in Cruisin' history. This year's Cruisin' had 8,590 vehicles registered as of Thursday, breaking last year's record of 8,328.

Diamondhead also saw a record number of Cruisers for its seventh annual "Blessing of the Classics," organizers said.

"It's getting more and more attention every year," event organizer Mark Duffy said. "What I've noticed more than anything, it's that more and more of the Diamondhead residents are coming out to watch the cars go by. It's a big event."

There's also a record number of Cruisers actually going into the shops and restaurants in Old Town

Author Thomas Simmons speaks about World War II at historical society

SEA COAST ECHO

Thomas (Tom) Simmons was the featured speaker on Thursday, Sept. 19 at the Hancock County Historical Society's monthly luncheon at the Kate Lobrano House. Simmons spoke about the causes and prelude to the Second World War. Simmons has recently published an important book entitled "Forgotten Heroes of World War II: Personal Accounts of Ordinary Soldiers." The book has been awarded the Gold Medal of History by the Military Writers Society of America.

Simmons grew up in Mississippi and attended Marion Military Institute, the U.S. Naval Academy, the U. of South Mississippi and the U. of Alabama. He served as a commercial captain of the 70' sailing vessel, Barca Villa. Simmons has been a pilot since age 16. He has flown professionally and participated in air shows flying aerobatics in open-cockpit bi-planes. Simmons has been honored with the prestigious FAA Wright Brothers Master Pilot Award. He served in the army as an artillery officer in Korea and has published eight books.

Simmons spoke about the causes of the second World War. A flawed Treaty of Versailles concluded the WWI, but saddled Germany with reparations of a billion dollars. Consequently the collapse of the economy of the Weimar Republic resulted in the rise and take-over of power by Chancellor Adolf Hitler. A strategy of appeasement by the allied nations over the next seven years failed to prevent the outbreak of WWII when the Third Reich invaded Poland on Sept. 1, 1939. Simmons said that in his new book the personal tales of 14 ordinary soldiers, aviators, and seamen were only recently shared with him. These veterans, like most World War II servicemen, did not want to talk about their war experiences.

Fortunately, Simmons persuaded these forgotten heroes to share these traumatic wartime memories that had been locked in the "dungeons of their minds."

Waveland seeking veteran participation for Veteran's Day parade

BY CASSANDRA FAVRE
STAFF WRITER

The city of Waveland is hosting a Veteran's Day Parade and is seeking participation from local veterans.

Parade coordinator Kristen Tusa said the event is scheduled for Sunday, Nov. 10 at 1 p.m. on Coleman Avenue.

"For many years, brave men and women have served our country, making many sacrifices to protect our freedoms, and we want to honor and celebrate these men and women for their service and sacrifices," Tusa said. "The reason the parade is on a Sunday is that we want all youth members of our community to have an opportunity to not only participate or attend the parade but to learn civic pride. Our hope is that they will be members of the community who will carry on this tradition."

Tusa said that veterans can choose to walk or ride in the parade.

The parade will begin at Waveland's Public Library and end at the Veteran's Memorial, she said. The goal is also to host a brief ceremony to honor veterans, she added.

Tusa asks that veterans complete a parade entry form — which can be found at www.seacoastecho.com or by contacting Tusa at kristentusa@gmail.com.

The deadline to participate is Nov. 1.

this week, Green said.

"And the merchants love it," Hancock Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Tish Williams said.

Green said Bay St. Louis businesses -- particularly Old Town merchants -- count the annual Cruisin' the Coast weekend among their most profitable time-periods all year long.

"It's neck-and-neck with Christmas time," she said.

One of the ways Hancock Tourism and the Old Town merchants help draw the Cruisers here from Cruisin' Central in Gulfport is offering each participant a free gift. The gift offer goes in each Cruiser's packet he or she receives from the Cruisin' organizers, and the Cruisers bring the offer to the Hancock Tourism tent. From there, they get a number drawn from a basket that leads them to a participating merchant who will give them the gift item.

"The merchants sponsor it, and it really works," Green said. "We're doing raffles" for the Cruisers," Green said. "It's really making a difference because its getting the people in the shops."

The action is scheduled to continue in the Bay and Pass Christian today from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Local Cruisin' venue entertainment scheduled today includes the following:

HUMAN SLAVERY

It's hard to imagine that human slavery still plagues the world. A large group of Northsiders met last week at Billy and Cissy Mounger's house to help do something about it.

They listened to a talk by Victor Boutros, head of the Human Trafficking Institute, who quit his career at the Department of Justice to pioneer efforts at reducing human trafficking worldwide.

At the federal Department of Justice, Boutros spearheaded efforts to train professionals in the criminal justice system to effectively combat human trafficking in the United States. It was working.

But he realized that most of the human trafficking, slavery really, was in the third world, where nobody was doing anything to apply these new techniques. Propelled by his strong Christian faith, Boutros quit his secure and lucrative federal job to start a non-profit design to train criminal justice professionals in the third world in techniques to effectively prosecute and jail known human traffickers.

Catherine Mounger, the Mounger's daughter, a teacher at Hartfield Academy, befriended Mary Love Koons, Strategic Partnerships Associate for the Human Trafficking Institute. And that is how a hundred or so Northsiders gathered to learn of this horrible problem.

Joining Boutros in the presentation was Eric Metaxas, a number one bestselling Christian author who has written books on Martin Luther; William Wilburforce, author of Amazing Grace; and Dietrich Bonhoeffer. Metaxas has a nationally syndicated radio show that reaches 120 cities. He met Boutros when interviewing him for one of his radio shows. Since then, Metaxas has become a huge Boutros fan and came all the way from New York to moderate Boutros' talk at the Moungers' house.

Boutros himself has a fascinating background. His parents were Egyptian Christians, both doctors, who fled to the United States because of religious persecution. They landed in Dallas, where Boutros grew up before attending Baylor, Harvard and Oxford prior to joining the federal Justice Department.

Boutros started off with the harrowing story of a 12-year-old girl from rural India who went to work in the big city of Mumbai as a dishwasher to earn money for her family. After the end of summer, she was heading back to her family and got disoriented in the big Victoria train station. Some women noticed her and offered to help. She boarded a train with the women who then drugged her tea and was knocked out cold. She woke up to find herself on the third floor of a brothel in the redlight district of Mumbai where these two women had sold her for $250.

Meanwhile her family was waiting for her at the train station. They didn't know why she wasn't on the train or

Wicker Supports USMCA Ratification

House and Senate Should Strike While the Iron is Hot on Trade

During the 2016 Election, President Donald Trump promised to improve America's trade deals. He surprised his skeptics and vindicated his supporters by keeping that promise a year ago and negotiating the United States-Mexico-Canada Agreement (USMCA), a much-needed update to the Clinton-era North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA).

In the months since it was negotiated, Mexico has ratified USMCA. My colleagues on Capitol Hill should move immediately to push USMCA over the finish line by sending it to President Trump's desk for his signature. This would demonstrate to Canada how serious America is about improving our trading relationships, motivating our neighbors to the north to take up USMCA themselves and finalize the deal.

WHY USMCA MATTERS

America sells twice as much to countries with which we have trade agreements compared to those we do not. Ratifying USMCA with Canada and Mexico would pave the way for greater exports around the globe. This administration advanced America's trade relationships with Japan recently at the G-7 meeting, expanding markets for our products in East Asia. Our negotiators are working to hold China accountable for its unfair and illegal practices. But USMCA remains America's greatest trade opportunity for economic growth.

Canada and Mexico are our nation's most important trading partners. Our relationships with them touch on every sector of our nation's economy, supporting 12 million American jobs and more than $500 billion worth of exports. Mississippi's exports to Canada and Mexico in 2018 were valued at $2.2 billion and $1.2 billion respectively, mostly in manufacturing areas like transportation equipment, electronics, and machinery. That sum represented more than $1,000 in economic activity for every man, woman, and child in our state.

The International Trade Commission expects the nation-wide economic impact of USMCA to be enormous. Its provisions for American agriculture alone, including dairy, poultry, and eggs, would be a $2.2 billion win. In total, the new trade deal would create $68 billion in growth and 176,000 good-paying jobs.

USMCA's benefits would extend far beyond our continent. A more unified North America with better ties to friendly nations like Japan would be a more challenging competitor for China. This would improve the potential outcomes of President Trump's conversations with Chinese leader Xi Jinping.

With so much at stake, it is vital that our trade agreements be updated correctly. NAFTA was a successful framework for a time, but it is showing its age. Though the 25-year-old treaty was the first of its kind to cover issues like intellectual property, the global economy has changed since 1994. For example, digital

Power of the press is in being the Way to Know for news consumers

The power of the press rests in the ability of journalists to hold government accountable, to mobilize public opinion on matters that are important to individuals, communities or the nation, and to provide necessary information of value.

Notice in those words not a mention of celebrity content, mobile devices nor "aspirational" reportage that feels good without doing any good.

But also notice in those words the key to the future for newsrooms across the nation: A visible role in the daily life of the nation rooted in real benefit and sustained credibility.

Newsprint may not be the medium-of-choice today for many readers, and perhaps certainly not the one for the desired next generation of readers. But the news organizations behind what certainly will be a blend of printed and electronic pages must be again the mediums-of-choice for that group, whether they be thought-leaders in society, office-holders in government or voters.

The nation — our audience — needs facts, presented clearly, accurately and completely. For those who are help rapt by the comings and goings of the Kardashians and turn away from discussion of policy in the Keystone Pipeline System debate: Well, perhaps it's time to say "good-bye" and leave them to vacuous talking heads, unreal "reality" shows and the assortment of cable TV geek-fests that offer a chance to feel superior just by sitting on a sofa.

"Targeted circulation" indeed. Let's leave behind the prideful ignorant who proclaim little faith and demonstrate even less actual consumption of news, and target those readers and users who want news and data and informed decisions — and who will pay a reasonable fee to get it.

Ok, not as easy to gather in and report out as feature items and single-interview chats. It means bucking the system to place journalists in seats where daily decisions are made and social issues discussed — from City Hall to church pews. It means bringing the news of the day in new ways, but with the same old standards that separated opinion from fact, news pages from editorials and commentary from reporting.

The Newseum Institute's latest State of the First Amendment national survey, published on July 4, showed that 70% of respondents disagreed with the statement that "overall, the news media tries to report the news without bias."

To be sure, the change of bias has been leveled at journalists since the nation began — and was, in fact, welcomed by many in the first "journals of opinion" and later by media moguls making no pretence at publishing anything but "news" filtered through their own views.

But over time, and by dint of the hard work and credible reporting by tens of thousands of journalists — in newspapers, and later in radio, television and now online — readers, listeners, views and users gave their loyalty to news operations that brought them what they needed.

As emotional as one can be when waxing about ink-on-newsprint, it was the information that was printed with that ink, on those pages, that made newspapers strong and powerful — where she was. They didn't even know how to start looking for her.

"When I heard that story it made my blood boil," Boutros told the crowd. "But over time I learned that story was replicated on a large scale around the globe.

"This is a crime that is often hidden from view and the traffickers design it that way. Victims are often not able to go to law enforcement or, if they are, they are so embarrassed and shamed by the trauma that's happened, that they don't want you to see it either."

"It is a tragic irony. The victim and the perpetrator work together to keep this hidden from view."

So what exactly is human trafficking or modern-day slavery? Boutros defined it as using threats, force and violence to coerce someone into either commercial sex or to force someone to work in their business such as a restaurant or a brick kiln or a hotel.

If you can force someone to work through force, your labor costs go to zero and profits soar. It is that greed that is driving modern day slavery. How do you battle this? Training law enforcement in proven techniques to institutionalize anti-trafficking detection and prosecution.

Billy Mounger told the group, "It's a brilliant strategy of training the legal systems in third world countries like they have in the United States to prosecute traffickers and make it stick. They also leverage the power of the United States by scoring countries on trafficking and threatening to withhold aid. In many third world countries U. S. aid is half their GDP so the United States has a really big stick to stop countries from trafficking."

How big is modern human slavery? There are 25 million young girls in sexual slavery. That's twice the number of African transatlantic slaves during the whole 400 year history of African-American slavery. If you look at a five-year period, it's 89 million people because the perpetrators are constantly burning and churning new people. It's the fastest growing crime on the globe.

This year traffickers will make $150 billion in profits, more than Apple, Microsoft, Samsung, Exxon and BP combined. These profits are what drives the modern-day slave trade. Ninety-three percent of the victims are in developing countries.

Boutros' organization is focused: "We know how to build specialized police and prosecution units that are equipped with the specialized skills to stop traffickers."

Thanks to the Moungers for helping promote awareness of this horrid situation. If you would like to donate or learn more please visit www.traffickinginstitute.org.

wrote last month that the agreement would be "a real improvement over the status quo." They went on to urge House Democrats – including many who have already said they approve of the new agreement – to take up USMCA without delay.

Passing USMCA would be a major accomplishment for the 116th Congress. At a time when political infighting has consumed much of official Washington, it would show real policy progress and a win for all Americans. It would be a mistake for the House and Senate to let this moment pass and leave America's workers without a 21st century trade agreement.

MDEQ to conduct survey on Whites Bayou

SEA COAST ECHO

The Mississippi Department of Environmental Quality (MDEQ) will be installing electronic monitoring equipment to help conduct a water sampling survey on Whites Bayou in Hancock County. During the survey a bright red, non-toxic dye will be released into the water. This dye is not toxic or hazardous. People should not be alarmed if they notice red coloration in the water. The dye is not harmful to people, plants, wildlife, fish or seafood.

Residents are asked not to tamper with the equipment that will be mounted on rebar, fence posts, PVC poles, or buoys. The survey is scheduled from October 10 to 18, and the equipment will be removed. and that information was the stuff – not the fluff – of life.

Of course there is room for entertaining, uplifting stories and reports on that part of the day that makes us chuckle, smile or simply shake a head. But editorial decisions ought not to start and end there. "Click-bait" ought not to squeeze out real debate. "Metrics" ought not to rule over meaning. And the challenge in thorough reporting on the county's budget next year ought to mean finding a new way – perhaps through the new studies of gaming technology as applied to news reporting – of telling a complex story. Decades ago, USA TODAY showed us how color weather maps and national sports rankings could be fun while still bringing needed information to commuters, gardeners and golfers – and while also reporting on AIDS, national security issues and unsafe military vehicles.

Consider that most news today still originates with mainstream media – and that the value for those aggregators was simply in finding a new way to package and deliver the content. A simple text-and-photo site called Craig's List wreaked havoc on the financial underpinnings of a massive industry just by finding an easier way to post and peruse the same information. Cannot we collectively continue to find such innovation within newsrooms as well?

Journalists have learned many hard lessons over the last two decades: Nobody really loved us because of our nameplates, innovation was not just a good idea but a daily consideration on survival, and we no longer are the gatekeepers anymore between news makers and news consumers.

But in those tough, even brutal, decades, we've also discovered how to make our pages come alive – literally, via the Web – and found new ways to know about and be in contact with those interested in news and information. To the old axiom about being "Clear, concise and accurate" those who have survived have added "responsive."

The power of the press was, is now, and will be in the future, bringing consumers the news they need – and having the fortitude to seek and report the news they don't even yet know they need, but will.

Ignorance and apathy is the challenge. Credibility and necessity are the means to overcome those challenges.

every Friday morning; Mr. Collins sent letters home with players that include scripture. The example which we were provided is dated July 2, 2019, and reads: 'The scripture says in Galatians 6:9, 'Let us not become weary in working hard, for at the proper time we will reap a harvest if we do not give up'; and both Mr. Collins and other athletic coaches reportedly participate in prayers with players before games.'

According to the letter, the Establishment Cause "commands a separation of church and state," and requires the "government remain secular, rather than affiliate itself with religious beliefs or institutions," and "may not promote or affiliate itself with any religious doctrine or organization, nor discriminate among persons on the basis of their religious beliefs and practices. Neither a state nor the federal government can openly or secretly participate in the affairs of any religious organizations or groups and vice versa."

Miller said that the fifth circuit has also "specifically made clear that public schools may not permit teachers to endorse religion during school activities," and if the "students' engagement with Mr. Collins' unconstitutional conduct was 'voluntary' is wholly irrelevant to the legal question."

"In view of these authorities, it is plain that the district is in violation of the Establishment Clause," Miller said. "This letter serves as an official notice of the unconstitutional activity and a formal demand that the district terminate this and any similar illegal activity immediately. We demand a written reply within two weeks of receipt of this letter setting forth the steps you will take to rectify this constitutional infringement." According to the letter, Miller said that the organization "prefers to leave it up to school administrators to determine the actions it will take to correct the Establishment Clause violations."

However, Miller did offer suggestions: That the district adopt a formal policy prohibiting district staff from participating in prayer with students; end Mr. Collins' practice of hosting football team meetings at Power House Deliverance; and enforce policies by "monitoring athletic program events and by sanctioning school officials for non-compliance with the penalties assessed for similar school code violations."

BWSD Superintendent Dr. Sandra Reed said Thursday that she has yet to speak with anyone at the organization about the matter.

"We try very hard to do what's best for our students within the constraints of the law," Reed said.

2020 Leo Seal Innovative Teacher Grant applications are now available online

SEA COAST ECHO

Outstanding South Mississippi K-12 teachers can apply online at <https://www.mgccf.org/grant-opportunities/> for 2020 Leo W. Seal Innovative Teacher Grants to fund original classroom learning projects that complement lessons and align with state educational objectives. Applications for 2020 grants are due November 12, 2019.

Funded by Hancock Whitney and administered by the Gulf Coast Community Foundation (GCCF), the Seal grants recognize up to 10 outstanding teachers with individual one-time $2,000 grants to activate creative teaching proposals enhancing students' learning experiences. Certified teachers at public and private schools in the seven Mississippi counties with Hancock Whitney locations—Forrest, Hancock, Harrison, Jackson, Jefferson Davis, Lamar, and Pearl River—are eligible to apply. To apply, teachers must complete online letters of intent which detail how their proposed projects provide innovative approaches to helping students learn and support state requirements. GCCF will review applications and invite selected teachers to submit full grant proposals in early December.

GCCF also coordinates selection of grant winners by an independent committee of business, community, and educational representatives not affiliated with Hancock Whitney.

Hancock Whitney established the Seal grant program in 1994 as a permanent endowment of the GCCF Pat Santucci Friends of Public Education program. First presented in 1996, the awards pay tribute to the community commitment and leadership of Leo W. Seal, Sr., the bank's president from 1932 until his death in 1963, and his son, the late Leo W. Seal, Jr., the bank's chief executive for 45 years.

Throughout their lives, both men championed countless economic and educational opportunities across the Gulf Coast.

Hawks upset bid falls short 31-28

BY DWAYNE BREMER
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

The Hancock Hawks' upset bid against the division-leading Gulfport Admirals Friday evening fell just short as the Hawks lost 31-28 at Milner Stadium.

"We battled all night long, but we were just one stop or one completed drive away," Hawks Head Coach Neil Lollar said. "We are going to keep working and finish strong."

The Hawks set a physical tone early Friday, taking the opening kickoff and marching 70 yards for a touchdown.

Hawks quarterback Sema'J Robertson had three first down runs on the drive, which spanned 12 plays.

Robertson capped the drive with a six-yard scamper at the 5:44 mark of the first quarter.

Austin Hyde booted the point-after to give Hancock a 7-0 lead.

Gulfport answered with a quick five-play drive to tie the game when Admiral quarterback Cade Crosby connected with Tommy Johnson for a 16-yard score.

The Hawks took over at the 20 after the kickoff and embarked on a marathon 18-play, 80-yard drive for another touchdown.

Sebastian Fausett got things going with a 10-yard run, and two plays later, Robertson connected with Jordan Foushee for 21 yards and another first down.

Fausett capped the drive with a one-yard scoring plunge and Hyde's point-after gave the Hawks a 14-7 lead with 11 minutes to play before halftime.

The Admirals once again responded quickly as Zayshun Crawford scooted around the right end on a 40-yard scoring run.

Tres Ladner added the point-after to tie the game at 14-14.

Ladner then gave the Admirals a 17-14 lead with a 28-yard field goal just before halftime.

Gulfport extended its lead early in the third quarter when Crosby connected with Crawford on a 10-yard touchdown pass.

The point-after gave Gulfport a 24-14 lead.

After a Hawk punt, Gulfport looked to deliver the knockout punch when they drove into the Hawks red zone.

The Hawks defense, however, made a big stand thanks to a tackle-for-loss by D'Kari Smith.

A 33-yard field-goal attempt by Ladner was no good and the Hawks took over at the 20 with 4:45 to play in the third.

Hancock then embarked on another long drive, this time marching 80 yards on 20 plays to reach the end-zone.

Fausett carried the ball 15 times on the drive for 60 yards, including the touchdown on a two-yard run.

Hyde's point-after cut the Admiral lead to 24-21 with 9:02 to play.

A 42-yard kickoff return by Johnson gave the Admirals good field position at midfield, and seven plays later, they extended their lead once again when William Jones scored on a one-yard run.

The point-after made the score 31-21, but the Hawks continued to fight.

A fake punt netted a big first down when Brandon King connected with Foushee on a 33-yard completion. A pass interference penalty moved the ball into Admiral territory and then Robertson connected with Jordan Zulli for a 41-yard touchdown.

Hyde's point-after cut the lead to 31-28 with 1:08 to play.

The Hawks attempted an onside kick, but it was recovered by the Admirals, who ran out the clock and secured the win.

Fausett led the Hawks with 146 yards on the ground and Robertson added 62 more.

Foushee snagged three passes for 60 yards.

The Hawks (3-4) will return home next Friday to take on D'Iberville.

Enjoy the circus and wash an elephant Monday in Kiln

SEA COAST ECHO

Cruisin' the Coast 2019 officially ends this Sunday, but there will be plenty more fun to be had in the Kiln on Monday when the circus comes to town.

Carson & Barnes will present Circus Saurus this Monday, Oct. 14, at the Hancock County Arena on Kiln-DeLisle Road.

There will be two shows Monday, one at 4:30 p.m. and the other at 7:30 p.m.

"See the Dinosaurs and Unicorn come alive at the circus," according to a press release. "The 2019 edition of CIRCUS SAURUS will feature artists from around the world. Immerse yourself into a mythological quest where fantasies and dreams become a reality. You will be transported to a whimsical world where mystical creatures will come to life right before your eyes.

"New heights of imagination will be reached as the elusive unicorn prances through the center ring to delight children of all ages. Dinosaurs will once again shake the ground we walk on as we travel back millions of years and have your heart captivated by our Majestic Asian Elephants."

The circus will also feature daredevils on the "Wheel of Destiny," tumbling acrobats, high-speed jugglers, clowns and aerial artists, according to the release.

Everyone is invited to join in the fun for free earlier in the day, when community members are encouraged to help wash the elephants starting at 3 p.m. on Monday.

NOODLES HOT, COLD, SWEET, AND SAVORY

BY LINDA BIGLER
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

Noodle dishes can be found in almost every culture. Legend, or history, has it that Marco Polo returned from his Asian journey with the knowledge of how to prepare the toothsome strands of dough. Regardless of the origin of noodles, they are now a staple in many pantries.

The first recipe I am going to share is for a chilled noodle salad. I realize that it is almost mid-October, but I have yet to feel the chill.

SPICY NOODLE SALAD

1 16-ounce package of soba noodles or angel hair pasta cooked according package directions, rinsed under cold water, and drained

One half cup rice vine-

One half cup soy sauce

One fourth cup dark sesame oil

3 cloves garlic, peeled and minced

1 tablespoon sugar

1 tablespoon Sriracha

1 large carrot, shredded

1 bunch green onions diagonally sliced

2 tablespoons toasted or black sesame seeds

In a large bowl whisk vinegar, soy sauce, sesame oil, garlic, sugar, and Sriracha together until well combined.

Carefully fold in the cooked noodles, carrot, and green onions. Sprinkle with sesame seeds and serve. Can be chilled 2 or 3 hours.

Serves 4 to 6

NOT YOUR MAMA'S TUNA NOODLE CASSEROLE

1 (12-ounce) package thin egg noodles, cooked according to package directions and drained

4 tablespoons butter

1 green pepper, seeded and chopped

1 medium onion, peeled and chopped

8 ounces white or cremini mushrooms, cleaned and sliced

One fourth cup all-purpose flour

2- and one-half cups whole milk

8 ounces pepper Jack cheese, shredded

1 teaspoon Tabasco sauce

2 (9 ounce) cans solid white tuna in spring water, drained and flaked

One fourth cup chopped flat leaf parsley

One half teaspoon salt

One half teaspoon black pepper

One half cup Panko (Japanese breadcrumbs)

2 tablespoons melted butter

Preheat oven to 350 degrees

Melt the 4 tablespoons butter in a large skillet set over medium heat. Add the prepared bell pepper, onion, and mushrooms. Sauté until tender, about 5 minutes. Stir the flour into the sautéed vegetables. Cook and stir constantly for about three minutes. Slowly pour in the milk, while stirring constantly. Stir until thickened. Remove from heat and stir in the cheese and Tabasco until the cheese melts. Add the tuna, parsley, salt and pepper, stir until combined. Fold in the prepared noodles. Grease a 9x13 inch baking dish and spoon noodle mixture in it. Cover with foil and bake for 25 minutes. Stir together the breadcrumbs and the 2 tablespoons melted butter. Uncover the noodle mixture and sprinkle with the prepared breadcrumbs. Bake for an addition 10 minutes. Remove from oven and serve immediately.

The final recipe is a sweet noodle dish. It can be served as a dessert or as an interesting side dish with baked ham.

NOODLE KUGEL

1 12-ounce package wide egg noodles, cooked according to package directions and drained

8 ounces cream cheese softened

1 cup sour cream

1 cup sugar

4 large eggs

1 20-ounce can crushed pineapple, drained

1 stick butter (4 ounces), melted and divided

3 cups frosted corn flakes, crushed

1 cup chopped toasted pecans

1 teaspoon ground cinnamon

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Lightly grease 9x13 inch baking dish.

Place the cream cheese, sour cream, sugar, and egg in a large mixing bowl. Mix on high speed of an electric mixer until smooth. Stir in the drained pineapple. Fold in the prepared noodles and one fourth cup of the melted butter. Spoon the noodle mixture into the prepared baking dish.

Toss together the crushed cereal, chopped pecans, cinnamon, and the remaining melted butter. Sprinkle over the noodles in the baking pan. Bake for about 45 minutes or until set.

Serves 10 to 12

Does My Cat Need Himalayan Salt?

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: I'm thoroughly confused by all the "health advice" for pets that I read online. One site tells me my cats should eat only organic meats and chicken (and nothing else!), while a Facebook page tells me that my pets will do fine on a vegan diet. My granddaughter's Instagram feed says that cats need a slew of supplements to be healthy, including pink Himalayan salt, which is all the rage. How can I figure out what's really best for my cats? — Jim H., Manchester, New Hampshire

DEAR JIM: I feel your pain. The internet has given us access to all the information we're looking for — and all the information we weren't. Companies have sprung up left and right, peddling the latest supplement or dietary recommendation to keep our pets totally healthy, guaranteed.

Fad diets can sometimes do harm to pets because key nutrients may be left out. Feeding dogs and cats only meat, and nothing else, can be as bad as feeding them no meat. And while most supplements are safe, you have to read up on what they actually do and know what a safe dose is.

Your first and best resource is your pet's veterinarian, who has years of advanced education in animal care and stays abreast of the latest developments in pet health and wellness. He or she can tell you the best diet or supplements to give your cats, and which info on the internet to pay attention to and which to disregard.

Talk to the vet at your cats' next check-up, and you'll get a much clearer picture of the best way to keep them healthy and well fed. No trendy salts needed.

Send your questions or pet care tips to ask@pawscorner.com.

Meet RED. This adorable Black Mouth Cur mix came into the shelter as a very skittish, scared, shy boy. He has come a long way, thanks to our staff and volunteers, but he still needs a gentle approach and kind words to feel comfortable. It is really sad that 4 month old Red has thus far not had the loving puppyhood that all puppies deserve. He came in as a stray, so all this pup knows is abandonment and loneliness. That all changed this past Saturday at Pet Smart. Red blossomed with all of the love and attention lavished upon him by our volunteers and visitors to the adoption event. Environment makes all of the difference in the world sometimes. He was friendly and playful with the dogs and kids that he meet at Pet Smart, so he could readily join a home with existing family pets and children. He is still a little fearful, so he will require calm, supervised introductions to younger children and new situations. Please keep in mind that Red will require consistent, positive house and crate training, as all puppies do. He is progressing beautifully with leash and harness training, and he easily learned to sit. Smart pup! Please stop by the Hancock County Animal Shelter, 7175 Texas Flat Rd, Kiln, to meet Red. (Please remember that while he may appear standoffish at the shelter, he is just a little pup in a big, noisy environment.) Call 228 466 4516 for more information, and visit our Facebook page, Hancock County Animal Shelter, MS, to see more pictures of Red and of the many other wonderful, adoptable animals looking for their forever homes.

The Hancock County Retired Senior Volunteer Program is currently seeking volunteers for its newest community outreach initiative, the RSVP Senior Mentor Volunteer Program.

RSVP Assistant Project Director Dr. Barbara

Coatney, who has more than 30 years experience in education and administration, wrote and applied for the federal grant that made the venture possible for RSVP.

Coatney said she came up with the idea after hearing Bay-Waveland School District Superintendent Dr. Sandra Reed discussing why the third-grade reading test scores were so low.

"I used that as a platform," she said. "I knew we could do better."

The program's primary focus is children in grades head start-through-third-grade, Coatney said.

The plan is for seniors to work with students in either small groups or individually, she said.

RSVP is partnering with the following schools: Bay-Waveland Head Start, North Bay Elementary, Waveland Elementary, and South Hancock Elementary.

RSVP is currently seeking 40 qualified volunteers, age 55 and older, for the program. Volunteers will receive training and must pass a background check, which is paid for Each numbered row contains two clues and two 6-letter answers. The two answers differ from each other by only one letter, which has already been inserted. For example, if you exchange the A from MASTER for an I, you get MISTER. Do not change the order of the letters.

MY HOME IS WHERE YOU ARE

BY GARY ANDREWS
GARY@GADEVOTIONALS.COM

As I was watching a western show on television not long ago I was intrigued by a statement I heard from the wife and mom of this pioneer family. The husband, who had loaded up his family and belongings in a single covered wagon, brought his wife and girls from a snug, good life in Wisconsin to the wide open prairie of Kansas.

After enduring hardships along the trail, having to cross rivers without a bridge, traveling through the cold in winter and the heat in summer, they finally arrived on a piece of land the husband decided to be their new home. Starting over with nothing but a stake on their new piece of land, this family worked together to build a home, a barn, fences for the animals, and faced the friendlessness of a couple of Indians.

As the mom and dad were putting up the logs on their new home, the mom, who was showing signs of tiredness and weariness, dropped her end of the log. The husband rushed to her side and helped her sit down in a cool area for some rest. He looked at her and told her he should have never put her through the turmoil of the trip and now the hard work of erecting a new house. He said,

"We should have stayed in Wisconsin where you had a nice home and a better life."

She responded to him, "My home is where you are."

What a great example of true love. This should be the everlasting commitment of all newlyweds and young families of today, however with the way our society is today, it is too easy for many young marrieds to quit and go separate ways when the hard times hit. As we have modernized and gotten better equipment and life has become easier, we have made it a time of conveniences instead of hard work and stick togetherness. When times become difficult the norms of today is split and try a new start instead of working together to mend the problems.

Our new political correctness and changes in our laws have made it easy for people to quit on a marriage with someone we professed our love to and start on a new marriage with someone new. It is almost like a trial and error situation until we get it right. Even in these days we have people living together out of wedlock until they decide they can make it together and then they may get married. We have children being born out of wedlock and now we have a world full of absentee dads.

I often wonder what the parents of the pioneer days would say about this day and time when anything goes and working with our hands has almost become extinct.

I have been thoroughly blessed in my marriage because my wife and I have moved many times during my career and started over through a new job. Our love is real and has been for over 43 years and we still work together to solve any problems that come about.

Proverbs 24:3-4 says, "By wisdom a house is built, and through understanding it is established; through knowledge its rooms are filled with rare and beautiful treasures."

A family based on the Bible will stand forever. As my wife and I did, the best way to start a marriage is by asking Jesus to be the head of the household.

Prayer: Lord I praise you for the marriage you have blessed me. It is my prayer that all newlyweds would invite you to be head of their family and home. Amen.

INFORMATION TO ENGINEERING FIRMS OR INDIVIDUALS
REQUEST FOR ENGINEERING SERVICES
The City of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi is requesting proposals from qualified individuals or firms to provide a cost estimate, project narrative and project map for the application phase and engineering services for design and construction to carry out all activities for its 2020 Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) Public Facilities Program. All services will be provided in accordance with applicable state and federal program rules and regulations under the Community Development Block Grant Program.
The project will involve, but not be limited to, engineering services for the project, if funded, under the Community Development Block Grant Program.
Said proposals will be received in the City Clerk's office, City of Bay St. Louis, 688 Highway 90, Bay St. Louis, MS 39520, until 2:00 P.M., Tuesday, November 12, 2019, after which time they will be opened by the Selection Committee.
The Selection Committee will then review each proposal and select a qualified individual or firm.
All proposals should be submitted in a sealed envelope clearly identified as follows:

SECTION 3 REQUIREMENTS
Section 3 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 requires that the City and contractors participating in CDBG projects give opportunities for job training and employment to lower income residents of the Section 3 area that is described below:

Negotiations will be conducted initially with the firm receiving the highest number of votes, as rated by the Selection Committee. If a mutually satisfactory contract cannot be negotiated with the firm, the firm will be requested to submit a best and final offer, in writing, and if a contract cannot be reached after the best and final offer, negotiation with that firm will be terminated. Negotiations then will be initiated with the next highest bidder in the order of rating, and this procedure will be continued until a mutually satisfactory contract has been negotiated. PUBLIC NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR COASTAL WETLANDS PERMIT AND WATER QUALITY CERTIFICATION
The City of Waveland has filed an application with the Department of Marine Resources requesting permission to conduct regulated activities under the provision of the Coastal Wetlands Protection Act, Title 49, Chapter 27, Mississippi Code of 1972.
The applicant is proposing to construct a sidewalk and ramp on the west side of the Garfield Ladner Pier. The goal of the project is to allow access to the waterfront for people in wheelchairs. The project is located on North Beach Boulevard, Waveland, Hancock County, MS. The sidewalk will be constructed of concrete on the sand beach. The proposed 12.5-foot-wide concrete pathway will be approximately 232 feet long. At the parking lot, the finished surface will have the same elevation as the top of the parking lot. It will slope 2% toward the beach and extend into the water approximately 60 feet. The applicant is requesting a variance from Chapter 8, Section 2, Part III.0.1 of the Mississippi Coastal Program (MCP) which states: "Permanent filling of coastal wetlands because of potential adverse and cumulative environmental impacts is discouraged", and to Miss. Admin. Code Title 22, Part 23, Chapter 8, Section 114.01 which states, "Permanent filling of coastal wetlands below the mean high tide line because of potential adverse and cumulative environmental impacts is not authorized". It has justified these requests under Chapter 8, Section 2, Part I.E.2.c. of the MCP and Miss. Admin. Code Title 22, Part 23, Chapter 8, Section 118 by stating that There is a significant public benefit and the public will be notified and a hearing will be held. This public notice, project diagrams, and a copy of the full project application may be accessed on MDMR's website at <http://dmr.ms.gov/index.php/coastal-resources-management/wetland-permitting>. A copy can also be mailed upon request.
In compliance with Section 401 of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act (33 U.S.C. 1251, 1341), as amended by PL 95-217, the applicant will request certification from the Office of Pollution Control that the above mentioned activity will be in compliance with applicable provisions of Section 301 (33 U.S.C. 1311), Section 302 (33 U.S.C. 1312), Section 303 (U.S.C. 1313), Section 306 (U.S.C. 1316), and Section 307 (U.S.C. 1317) of the Act and appropriate requirements of the State Law. Any person wishing to make comments or objections to the proposed regulated activity must submit those comments in writing to the Department of Marine Resources by mail to 1141 Bayview Avenue, Biloxi, Mississippi 39530, before 1:00 p.m. on the day October 29. A public hearing will be held at City Hall at 301 Coleman Ave, Waveland, MS 39576 at 5:30 p.m. on the day October 29, 2019. 10/12; 10/19; 10/26/19

APRA HARBOR, Guam – A 2002 Pass Christian High School graduate and Pass Christian, Mississippi, native is serving in the U.S. Navy at Naval Base Guam.

Petty Officer 2nd Class Dale Smith is a master-at-arms serving with Naval Base Guam Security Detachment. Smith is responsible for being a policeman for the Navy.

Smith credits success in the Navy to many of the lessons learned in Pass Christian.

"My hometown was small but very diverse," said Smith. "Coming from a small town teaches you to slow down and take in all of your surroundings."

According to officials at the U.S. Navy's Pacific Fleet headquarters in Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, the ships, submarines, aircraft and Navy personnel forward-deployed to Guam are part of the world's largest fleet command and serve in a region critical to U.S. national security. The U.S. Pacific Fleet encompasses 100 million square miles, nearly half the Earth's surface, from Antarctica to the Arctic Circle and from the West Coast of the United States into the Indian Ocean. All told, there are more than 200 ships and submarines, nearly 1,200 aircraft, and more than 130,000 uniformed and civilian personnel serving in the Pacific.

"I enjoy mentoring junior sailors and helping them to grow and develop," Smith said.

Serving in the Navy means Smith is part of a world that is taking on new importance in America's focus on rebuilding military readiness, strengthening alliances and reforming business practices in support of the National Defense Strategy.

A key element of the Navy the nation needs is tied to the fact that America is a maritime nation, and that the nation's prosperity is tied to the ability to operate freely on the world's oceans. More than 70 percent of the Earth's surface is covered by water; 80 percent of the world's population lives close to a coast; and 90 percent of all global trade by volume travels by sea.

"Our priorities center on people, capabilities and processes, and will be achieved by our focus on speed, value, results and partnerships," said Secretary of the Navy Richard V. Spencer. "Readiness, lethality and modernization are the requirements driving these priorities."

Though there are many ways for sailors to earn distinction in their command, community, and career, Smith is most proud of setting small goals for himself to help accomplish bigger goals.

As a member of one of the U.S. Navy's most relied upon assets, Smith and other sailors know they are part of a legacy that will last beyond their lifetimes, one that will provide a critical component of the Navy the nation needs.

"I enjoy serving and making a difference," added Smith.

Mr. Charles Bourg, science teacher at Hancock Middle School, was recently awarded two grants for the purchase of a new 2 color, 3-dimensional printer and filaments for his computer science class. He received $278.38 grant from Chris Sanders Rural Technology Fund through the Donors Choose program, and $327.49 from Young Sheldon on CBS. Mr. Bourg stated, "This 2 color printer will allow our students to get more excited by printing in multiple colors at the same time. They can then get a better understanding by seeing how the printer actually works and provide hands on experience." Pictured is Mr. Bourg and the new 2 color 3D printer.

with grant funding, Coatney said. Retired educators are also welcome, she said. Volunteers will receive about four to six hours of instructional education/training prior to placement, Coatney said, and will be provided appropriate lesson plan content from teachers.

Coatney added that the program is a good way for seniors to give back to the community.

"It keeps seniors' minds active and they also develop a bond with the children," she said. "So when they improve, they get that gratification."

Anyone who would like to join the mentoring program is asked to contact RSVP staff at 228-467-9073 or via email at hancockcountyrsvp@hotmail.com.
